Ships and Airplanes Seek Lost Aviators

Miss Doran and Golden Eagle Lost in Pacific Ocean—Dole Race Won by Art Goebel—Second Place Taken by Martin Jensen—Navy Department Details 42 Ships to Assist in Search.

Washington, Aug. 15 (AP).—Marine Corps today had 42 ships of various descriptions under orders to search for the missing Hawaiian flight planes "Miss Doran" and "Golden Eagle."

Most of the ships were under way today while the others are awaiting only stocking up with provisions to speed out into the broad waters along the 2,400-mile flight course in hope of finding the five missing fliers alive.

The armada of naval craft, which will be assisted in the wide search by airplanes and commercial craft, includes seven destroyers out of San Francisco, four destroyers enroute from Honolulu to Seattle, 23 submarines and three submarine tenders from the Pearl Harbor station, the aircraft carrier Langley, and the aircraft tender Arctostock.

Navy Joins Search.

San Francisco, Aug. 15 (AP).—Forty destroyers, merchant vessels and aircraft joined in the hunt today for two airplanes—the Golden Eagle and the Miss Doran—which sailed into the air from Oakland Airport on Tuesday with high hopes of reaching Honolulu in competition for the James Dole $25,000 prize for a non-stop run to Honolulu, a distance of 2,409 miles.

First and Second Prize Winners.

While interest in the fight hovered in the search over the Pacific, tucked safely in their hangars at Wheeler Field, Honolulu, were the monoplane Woodrow and the biplane Aloha, which landed at the finishing point late yesterday. The Woodrow, piloted by Art Goebel, won first prize of $25,000 and the Aloha, in second place, gets prize money of $10,000.

Goebel skimmed across the long course in 26 hours, 17 minutes and 33 seconds, while Jensen's time was 28 hours, 16 minutes and 20 seconds.

Gasoline Supply Exhausted.

At midnight the missing planes had been out more than 34 hours, long past the time when their gasoline supply would have kept them on the wing.

One carried Miss Mildred Doran, 22-year-old Michigan school teacher, with J. A. Pedlar, pilot, and Lieut. V. R. Knope, navigator.

The other was the cigar-shaped monoplane Golden Eagle, piloted by Jack Frost of New York, and navigated by Gordon Scott of Santa Monica.

Warned Not to Start.

Miss Doran's plane went into the race after it was forced back to the Oakland airport from its first start in the Dole Derby on Tuesday on account of engine trouble and went out again despite the warning of Lieut. Ben Wyatt, navigation officer who had inspected all entrants in the aerial contest.

But Miss Doran was adamant in her refusal to remain behind in the race and joined with Pedlar and Knope in a second start down the runway and off through the Golden Gate.

Today all the modern agencies of communication were thrown into full play in search for the missing planes, neither of which carried radio sending sets.

Airplanes Help Search.

Airplanes were zooming out from the shores of Hawaii and California, scanning the broad expanses of the Pacific where the fliers may be battling the elements hoping to sight a passing ship, in their planes or in rubber inflated life boats which they took for such an eventuality.

The fate of the Miss Doran was cause for greatest anxiety owing to the fact it may have been forced down soon after it left the starting point and dumped into the sea with a ton of gasoline in the tanks. Possibility of a smashup and quick sinking loomed large in this picture. For the plane's load would have made a landing at sea a most hazardous task.

Optimistic About Golden Eagle.

The Golden Eagle presented a more hopeful prospect. It was sent into the race equipped to care for all emergency. Its navigator was considered one of the most skillful, and pilot Frost had a machine performing perfectly at the take-off. It forced into the open sea, the landing gear could be dropped after the plane reached the water and three emergency floats of the craft—the wing ends and the rear of the fuselage—could be inflated with air carried in a tank in the navigator's cabin.

Pico lines were connected with the air feed and the navigator could fill the tanks by turning a valve. The tanks could be placed on the wing tips to prevent the sea from pouring them to pieces.

First Contingent Of Legionnaires Arrive in France

President Harding Brings First Group of Legion Delegates to Cherbourg—Receive Enthusiastic Greeting From French—Make Plenty of Noise as They Start For Paris.

Cherbourg, France Aug. 15 (AP).—The American Expeditionary Forces' return to France and its battlefields began today when the first contingent of the official American Legion Transports, unloaded half its contingent of buddies here for their descent on Paris.

The other half of the 500 Legionnaires remained on the liner with the object of going on to Southampton and visiting England before the Legion convention in Paris.

The cheers and loud laughter on the quay were broken now and then by little cries and tears of joy as French fathers and mothers greeted the war brides who had come back with their American husbands, some of them with babies the grandparents had never seen.

"Ma Fille!—Carmen! Petite Maurice!" shouted one French grandmother, as she rushed with open arms toward her daughter, who came back with two children.

This was only one of many reunions, for numerous veterans were greeted not only by relatives but by French friends they had not seen in eight years since the boys went home.

The contingent on the first official transport has been preceded by about 4,000 Legionnaires who came privately during the last few weeks. These now are scattered all over Europe.

Legion officials met the boat, and the veterans were greeted by James P. Barton, secretary-general of the Legion, when they disembarked on the quay, which was decorated with a manner reminding the population of war days, the soldiers climbed aboard a special train, and the noisiest caravan the countryside has heard for years was off for Paris.

They were lined with rubber to make the Golden Eagle seaworthy.

Lieut. Ben Wyatt, who made all navigation tests for the Dole race, was warned against taking off again since it did not believe that changing the spark plugs would rectify the motor trouble which forced him back. I believe he experienced the same motor trouble which forced the Oklahoma out of the race.

Golden Eagle Best Equipped.

"I am at a loss to explain the non-arrival of the Golden Eagle since this plane was probably the best equipped of all in the race."

"It is unfortunate that Miss Mildred Doran attempted the flight, but since she was determined to go, nothing could be done to prevent it. Both Knope and Scott are good navigators and could put their ships in Honolulu barring any accident."

"Both planes are provided with rubber rafts, three days' emergency rations, smoke bombs and flares to attract attention."

Tense Anxiety in Flight.

Ft. Mich., Aug. 15 (AP).—Enthusiasm of home town friends and relatives of Miss Mildred Doran, passenger with "Auggie" Pedlar in the trans-oceanic plane, who waited expectantly yesterday for favorable news, had given way to tense anxiety today when the plane had failed to arrive at its destination, Honolulu.

Friends realized that before departing for San Francisco to participate in the flight, Miss Doran remarked:

"I feel sure we will win but if we don't, well, life is just a game of chance anyway."

Pedlar's Mother Wants Answer.

Johnstown, Pa., Aug. 15 (AP).—An anxious mother, Mrs. Frank Pedlar, today watched Associated Press dispatches for word of her son, Auggie Pedlar, pilot entered in the Dole prize flight across the Pacific to Honolulu. The plane, the "Miss Doran," was reported missing.

"I did not want to be at the starting place on the coast to see Auggie start his flight," said Mrs. Joy, who is visiting relatives here. "I don't care about the prize money or honors for my boy. If only you could give me the welcome news of his safe arrival."

Great and Humble Pay Gary Tribute

At Funeral Services in Gary Memorial Church—Brief and Simple Ceremony Arranged—Body Will Be Interred in Mausoleum.

Wheaton, Ill., Aug. 15 (AP).—The great and the humble who knew Elbert H. Gary and called him friend, gathered today at his bier to pay him final tribute.

Funeral services in the beautiful church which the steel master built as a memorial to his parents brought not only the kings and princes of the world of business but also neighbors and townsmen of the farm boy who rose to be captain of a great industry.

There was a brief ceremony arranged for the church, with music by a quartette chosen by old friends of Mr. Gary who knew and respected his wishes for simple rites. The funeral sermon was prepared by the Rev. Frederick D. Lee, Methodist bishop of Indianapolis, with prayers by the Rev. James T. Ladd of Elgin, the Rev. Ernest Tittle of Evanston, and the Rev. A. M. Pennell, pastor of the Gary Memorial Church.

A mausoleum built 17 years ago by Mr. Gary at a cost of $250,000 was the end of the journey. In it rests the body of Mr. Gary's first wife.

Honorary pall-bearers were some of the leaders in the business world who called the dead man their friend. They included Vice-President Charles G. Dawes, Charles M. Schwab, Nathan L. Miller, Senator Charles Dineen of Illinois, James A. Farrell, John J. Mitchell and Frank O. Lowden.

The active pall-bearers were ten young high school and college athletes whose services were required to bear the heavy casket to the graves. They were chosen from the families of Mr. Gary's Wheaton friends. Among them were Garland Grange, brother of "Red" Grange, and Victor Gustafson, captain of the Northwestern University football team.

Sacco Defense Will Appeal to U.S. Supreme Court

In the Event That the Massachusetts Supreme Court Denies the Petitions Argued Before it Tuesday—Defense Committee Increases Activity—Writes Letter to Kellogg.

Boston, Aug. 15 (AP).—Petition for a writ of certiorari in the case of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti will be filed with the United States Supreme Court in Washington in the event that the Massachusetts supreme court denies the petitions argued before it on Tuesday. This was made known today by Michael Angelo Musmanno, Pittsburgh attorney, who is associated with the defense.

Attorney Musmanno said he would go to Washington with the necessary papers which would be filed with the clerk of the highest court in the United States. He added that he would not proceed to Washington before the state supreme court's action was announced. He explained that it would take only a few hours to prepare a petition for a writ of certiorari if the state court's decision were adverse to Sacco and Vanzetti.

Would Appeal to Holmes.

Intimation that the defense would carry their appeal to the federal court was made yesterday when Arthur D. Hill, chief counsel, visited the federal building and received information regarding the procedure in filing a writ of certiorari. Although it is understood a petition for such a writ must be filed in Washington, it appears likely that an appeal would also be made to a supreme court justice for a stay of execution as soon as the petition was filed. In this case it is probable that the defense would appeal to Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, now at his home in Beverly, despite the fact that he refused a petition for a writ of habeas corpus last week.

Defense Committee Active.

Increased activity on the part of counsel and defense committees was under way today in behalf of Sacco and Vanzetti, whose execution for murder is scheduled to take place early next Tuesday.

The Sacco-Vanzetti defense committee has demanded that the United States government furnish the American press with the same review of the case as was released by it recently in Argentina. A meeting sponsored by the committee will be held in a Boston hall tonight. It was announced. Three attempts to hold meetings on Boston Common in recent weeks have been broken up by the police.

Sends Letter to Kellogg.

The demand for immediate release of the review was made in a letter to Secretary of State Kellogg. The Sacco-Vanzetti case, the committee read, "far from not being a matter of federal concern, has, in truth, been dealt with officially by the federal government for at least two years past. It is now apparently such a vital issue to the federal government that a branch of that government formally undertakes the public of our foreign nation what the state of Massachusetts has done in the case of two citizens of another nation."

"We cannot reconcile this action with the repeated statements of the President of the United States, the attorney-general and your own department, that the Sacco-Vanzetti case is solely a Massachusetts affair and of no concern whatever to the federal government."

Wells Wanted for Dollar Day Sale

Selling $150 Cow

Animal Was Owned by Morris Sitzer of Atwood, Who Reported Its Loss—Sold to William Stewart of Hurley for $50.

Otis Wells, aged 18, of Atwood is wanted because of a deal in selling a cow valued at $150 for $50. It was a registered Holstein owned by Morris Sitzer of Atwood which Wells led from a pasture on early Wednesday morning and sold to William Stewart who owns a farm along the mountain road in the town of Hurley. Young Wells told Mr. Stewart that the cow belonged to his mother and because they were going to move she needed the money at once. Not having the cash Mr. Stewart came to Kingston and had a check which he had for $150 cashed and gave Wells the $50.

When Mr. Sitzer missed the cow on Wednesday morning he notified the sheriff's office and the police were also notified to watch the entrances to Kingston from Hurley as it had been learned that Wells had been seen leading the cow and headed for this city. Later Sheriff Rice and Deputy Sheriff Constable went by auto to investigate and after making inquiries learned that men working on road improvements had seen Wells with the cow which he had told them he was going to sell to Mr. Stewart.

The sheriff and party, Mr. Sitzer, being with them, when they reached the Stewart farm saw a Holstein cow tethered in a field which Mr. Sitzer said was his. As it was a Wednesday's Dollar Day clearly demonstrated to thousands of shoppers that "Kingston is a good place to shop."

Record Crowd in Afternoon.

Business continued brisk throughout the day with a record crowd during the afternoon. People from down the river and up the river mingled with the local people. The offerings attracted people from as far north as Hudson and from the numerous villages across the river, including Hyde Park and Staatsburgh, while many people came down from Stamford and as far west as Oneonta. In fact, people from near and far participated and benefited by the cooperative sale of the Kingston merchants.

Business Brisk at Night.

The stores kept open during the evening until 9 o'clock and business continued brisk during the evening although somewhat slower than during the afternoon and morning. Real values offered by the merchants at Dollar Day have undoubtedly created a big impression on the shoppers for miles around and show that Kingston merchants have the goods and give the values.

Cooperation a Big Factor.

A great deal of credit for the success of the sale should be given Mr. Wolfson of The People's Store, who worked very energetically during the preparatory campaign and in the distribution of the window cards and signs throughout town. The cooperation of the merchants in putting over the sale was one of the big factors in making it a success and demonstrated again the benefits of a cooperative movement.

OVER-STUDY GIVEN AS CAUSE OF GIRL SUICIDE.

New York, Aug. 15 (AP).—Over-study and a too-active mind were attributed by her father today as the cause of the suicide of Miss Mildred Barber, 20-year-old art student, whose body was found in the gas-filled room in a West 51st Street lodging house.

"My daughter was a student at Bryn Mawr until about a year ago," said George P. Barber, Philadelphia art needle manufacturer, "when she obtained a leave of absence to study art in Philadelphia. She tried to cram four years of study into two years, suffered a nervous breakdown and melancholia. She had no love affairs and cared nothing for young men. She was devoted to her art studies."

Mr. and Mrs. Barber hurried here on receiving word that the body of their daughter had been found yesterday. Miss Barber had ended her life by inhaling gas after leaving a note asking that there be no publicity. "It would not do much good on the part of the police," she wrote, "as I have a family and friends."

Offers $50,000 To Aviators

Kansas City, Aug. 15 (AP).—Prizes totalling $50,000 today were being up for arms by two southwestern business men. One $25,000 offer, however, is for Captain W. P. Erwin of Dallas, Texas, alone.

Frank Phillips, president of the Phillips Petroleum Company, who personally backed the Woodrow, winner of the Dole air derby, announced an international aerial race to be held in Bartlesville, Okla., in October, with cash prizes totalling $25,000.

Despite his two starts from Dallas, a forced landing at Beaumont, Calif., and failure to get away in the Dole flight, Captain Erwin was given a chance to win a purse of $25,000 if he could make it to Santa Rosa, Calif., through an offer made by Col. William E. Easterwood of Dallas.

King's Daughters' Ongoing.

The King's Daughters will hold their annual outing at the home of Mrs. Robert Everett, Lake Karline, Thursday, August 25. Each one will take part of their lunch as usual. Bus leaves terminal at 9:30 a. m. and 10:30 a. m. Get off at neighborhood road.

Dollar Day Sale Most Successful Ever Held Here

Cooperation of Merchants Who Participated and Big Value Bargains Which They Advertised Resulted in Breaking Record of Community Sales in City.

Clearing skies Wednesday afternoon brought out a record crowd for Kingston's Community Dollar Day and the opinion of the business men seems to be unanimous that the event was a record maker for Kingston Dollar Days. The early morning clouds which turned out under a cloudy sky were increased in the afternoon when the sun crept through the clouds and beautiful weather followed. The weather was partly responsible for the great crowds but the real reason was the genuine bargains which were being offered throughout the city. Attracted by the items which had been advertised, shoppers came from distant points and found that the bargains advertised had been only a portion of the offerings of the merchants.

The opinion of everyone, both merchant and shopper, is that this year's Dollar Day was the most wonderful ever held here and the offerings were genuine and the volume of business indicates that the public knows real offerings when made. The opinion of the merchants is that a Wednesday's Dollar Day clearly demonstrated to thousands of shoppers that "Kingston is a good place to shop."

Ellenville Fair To Open Tuesday, Bigger and Better

Exhibits and Entertainment Features Will Far Surpass Those of Former Year—Harness and Auto Races Will Be Big Feature—Large Crowds Expected.

Officials of the Ulster County Agricultural Society today were more than confident that when the County Fair opens its gates next Tuesday the fair management will have fulfilled its promise of having arranged the most attractive, interesting and instructive exhibition ever held in the county.

From home-canned huckleberries to imported snake charmers, there will be exhibits galore; more, it is believed, than at any previous fair.

While workers have been putting the final touches on new barns and other new buildings at the fair grounds in Ellenville, the office of Secretary-General Manager E. C. Hooper, at the Ellenville Press building, has been besieged by concessionaires and flooded with exhibitors desiring to display everything from a prize pig to a monogrammed sofa pillow.

The majority of all exhibits are to be in place Tuesday morning. The "rip-roaring Midway," to be in operation day and night, will include among its attractions this year a ferris wheel, merry-go-round, several other thrilling "rides," a "teledrome," wherein an intrepid motorcyclist spins madly in a deep pit, snake show, wild animals and wild men, and blanket and corn stores galore.

The big free attractions, besides the eight drews exhibit, include rough riding by New York State Troopers, each day; balloon ascensions and parachute jumps on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, and concerts by a twenty-piece band from Kingston.

Three Days of Racing.

Two days of harness racing and one of automobile racing will give thrills to lovers of horse-flesh and addicts of the burning speedsters. Tuesday is children's day, when children are admitted free. In the afternoon, the Kingston Colonials and the Ellenville Orioles, baseball rivals for many years, will meet on the fair grounds diamond. There will be rough riding by the State Troopers, a pony race and a band concert.

Farm and Home Bureau Day.

From all parts of the county farmers are expected to throng the fair grounds on Wednesday, for, in addition to the regular attractions, a number of special events will be staged for Farm and Home Bureau Day. Among them will be a "bar-yard golf" contest, in which Ellenville's best horseshoe pitchers will compete in two rings. Livestock will be judged.

Trying Out for Races.

Wednesday will inaugurate the harness racing. Some of the best nags that ever trotted or peed on any county fair circuit will be on hand. Men were busy this week putting the stables in shape, and one or two early arrivals were trying out the track. Wednesday, too, will open the balloon events, and the fireworks display.

Thursday will be another big harness racing day, with another balloon ascension and more fireworks and a pony race thrown in. The rough riders, of course, will be on the job every day, and this year they have a new "monkey drill" that would put rodeo riders to shame.

Friday, for a grand finale, there will be five automobile events, drawing here ten of the fastest drivers who have ever appeared at county fairs hereabouts.

GRANDMOTHER'S BLOOD STARTS BOY ON ROAD TO RECOVERY

Jersey City, N. J., Aug. 15 (AP).—A plot and a half of blood given him by his sixty-three year-old grandmother for whom he had called in his delirium, today was bringing William Ortmann, 20, back to reality after he was almost crushed to death in a mixing machine of the Davis Baking Powder plant here.

Mrs. Emily Coons, the grandmother, volunteered for the operation after two young men were rejected. "What's the matter with her?" she inquired.

Surgeons hesitated because of her age.

"Come on, let's go," the woman said.

The operation was performed in St. Mary's Hospital, Hoboken, where the youth had been taken suffering from a torn right arm and a foot so badly hurt it had to be amputated.

BREAK IN 16-INCH WATER MAIN ON PEARL STREET.

Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock the water department was notified of a break in the water main on Pearl street in front of the residence of Sam Bernstein. Mr. Water board employees were placed on the job and by 6 o'clock repairs had been made. The main, a new 16 inch pipe that was recently installed, had broken under the under side with the result that the water had washed out a hole fully fifteen yards across and it was not necessary to do much excavating to get down to the main, and make repairs to the pipe.

CANAL HAS BIG REPAIR PLANT

Facilities at Balboa and Cristobal for Ship Work Are Described.

Washington.—The elaborate facilities for the repairing of ships at the Panama canal are given in a bulletin of the Panama canal authorities. The principal manufacturing and repair plant is located at Balboa, the Pacific terminal of the canal. It is adjacent to an inner harbor, which has an area sufficient to permit access to docks, which aggregate 7,500 feet in length, including commercial docks, repair wharves and coaling docks.

A much smaller plant is located at Cristobal, the Atlantic terminal about one and one-half miles from the main commercial docks. A description of the plant at Balboa follows:

The dock has a depth of 35 feet over the blocks at mean tide. High tide varies from 3 to 11 feet above mean tide. It is served by a 50-ton traveling crane with an outside reach of five feet beyond the center of the dock. This crane is also capable of traveling along the face of some of the repair wharves, thus facilitating the work of repairing vessels.

For ships which do not require dry docking there are adjacent to the shops about 3,500 feet of repair wharves. At regular intervals along the coping of the dry dock and the repair wharves are outlets for air, water and alternating electric current. A limited quantity of direct current can be supplied by two portable motor generating sets. Either compressed air or electricity can be supplied for operating auxiliaries on ships on which steam is off. Where refrigerating machinery is shut down, cold storage can be removed from the ship's boxes and stored in the canal cold storage warehouse nearby.

The repair shops are centrally located with respect to the dry dock and repair wharves. Ample track and crane services provide for handling work between shops and ships.

Huge Traveling Cranes.—The main metal-working shops (machine, smithery, and boiler shop) are provided with 60-ton overhead traveling cranes, while the foundry has a 20-ton overhead crane. As all the shops are equipped with as complete lines of power tools as are generally found in an up-to-date repair shop, only the larger tools will be given special mention so to give an idea of the maximum capacity of each department.

The machine shop is provided with a vertical boring mill capable of working 18 feet in diameter, with an open side extension planer 16 feet by 32 feet, and with a lathe 120-inch swing by 65 feet between centers. No ship machinery is too large for the capacity of this shop. This shop has a floor area of approximately 68,180 square feet.

The smithery is provided with a 600-ton forging press with the necessary furnaces to handle any work that the press is capable of. Billets 24 inches square by 19 feet long are kept in stock and can be worked under this press; there are other machinery and tools usually found in a first-class smithery. There is also a department for spring making and a tool-dressing department that includes oil burning and electric tempering furnaces of the latest type. This shop has a floor area of approximately 24,336 square feet.

The boiler and ship-fitting shops have a set of rolls capable of bending plates 1/4 inch by 30 feet, 1 inch by 24 feet, or 2 inches by 8 feet. Any size of ship or boiler plates or structural shapes can be worked by the other machinery, which includes angle shears, punches, straightening rolls, plate planer, and bending machine. This shop has a floor area of approximately 46,800 square feet.

The pipe shop is outfitted for plumbing work and for pipe, copper and sheet-metal work of the highest class. The floor area of this shop is approximately 17,144 square feet.

The foundry is equipped with a two-ton tropic converter and one two-ton and one one-ton cupola, and the usual brass furnaces. There is an efficient sand-blast system for cleaning castings, also gate saws, sprue cutters, and other modern equipment, including annealing furnaces, core oven and mold-drying oven. The foundry can turn out castings as follows: Bronze, brass or composition, 1/4 pound to 1,000 pounds; iron, 1/4 pound to 20,000 pounds; steel, 1/4 pound to 10,000 pounds. In connection with the foundry is a pattern shop equipped to handle any and all classes of pattern work. This foundry and pattern shop together have a floor area of approximately 37,708 square feet.

Woodworking Machinery.—The planing mill and joiner shop is equipped with the usual woodworking machines, including a 72-inch sawmill capable of handling timbers likely to be used in connection with ship work. This shop has a floor area of approximately 40,044 square feet.

The dry-dock plant has portable electric welding and oxy-acetylene cutting outfits capable of handling emergency repairs. The plant develops approximately 60 cubic feet of acetylene per hour, 3,000 cubic feet of hydrogen per day. All classes of better welding are done. Large charnockite welds can be performed.

Main engine cylinders have been welded in place, both high pressure and low pressure, the welds being extensive and as successful as the welds made in the United States on engine cylinders during the World war. This plant has a floor area of approximately 910 square feet.

An instrument repair shop is maintained in which repairs are made to navigating instruments, clocks, gauges, typewriters and computing machines and other work of a minute character. In connection with this shop there is a plating plant for zinc, copper, nickel, silver and gold. This shop has a floor area of approximately 2,500 square feet.

Located in the same building with the instrument repair shop is an electric shop under the control of the electrical division, the facilities of which are available for the entire Panama canal. This shop is equipped for motor winding, switchboard work and making repairs to practically any kind of electrical apparatus. The floor area of this shop is approximately 3,400 square feet.

There is a car shop equipped with all necessary machinery for the building of railroad cars of all kinds and also the repairing of all the rolling stock of the Panama railroad. In connection with this shop there is a re-rolling mill for re-rolling bars and miscellaneous scrap material into rounds and flats. This shop has a floor area of approximately 61,919 square feet.

There is located at both the Balboa and the Cristobal shops and connected therewith a roundhouse where general overhauling as well as minor repairs are made to the locomotives of the Panama railroad.

The air-compressor plant and dry-dock pumping plant at Balboa are located in the same building. There are two 3,000 cubic foot and one 2,500 cubic foot air compressors in use, driven by electric motors and one 2,500 cubic foot steam-driven compressor which is considered only as an emergency unit.

Up-to-Date Laboratory.—There is a laboratory equipped with a Hottelport Mott testing machine and a Rockwell hardness testing machine and other equipment for making physical tests of all kinds. There are also available in another division of the Panama canal laboratories where chemical tests can be made of fuel oils, metals, etc.

All shop tools are operated by electricity. The larger tools are provided with independent motors and the smaller tools are arranged in groups and driven from countershafts. The current is obtained from a hydro-electric plant at the Gatun spillway, supplemented by a Diesel-driven plant at Miraflores. The 25-cycle, alternating current is transmitted to the Balboa substation at 44,000 volts. At the substation it is transformed to 2,200 volts and so distributed through underground duct lines to the various shops, where it is further transformed, where necessary, to suitable voltages for use. The various speed tools in the machine shop are driven by direct current from rotary transformers within the shop. All other tools are driven by alternating current, generally at 220 volts. Current at 220 volts is available at all points along the water front for power purposes, and at 110 volts for lighting in the event of ship generators being out of use. The storehouses (under the control of the supply department) carry on hand a large stock of steel shapes, pipe, ship fittings, and supplies of every description. Steel plate is carried in stock in all thicknesses up to and including 2 inches. Plates smaller than 1/2-inch vary by sixteenths and plates larger than 1/2-inch vary by eighths. The largest plates in stock are 72 inches by 10 feet by 2 inches thick. A large amount of steel billets is kept on hand in all sizes up to and including 24 inches by 24 inches by 19 feet. Structural shapes are carried as follows: I-beams, all sizes up to 27 inches; channels, all sizes up to 15 inches; ship channels, all sizes up to 12 inches; and angles, all sizes up to 8 inches by 8 inches by 1/2-inch. There are also carried in the storehouses lumber of all sizes and miscellaneous equipment and supplies of practically every description that are used in the operation and maintenance of the entire Panama canal.

First "By-Laws"—Islands are wonderfully interesting places—but why is it that they always have to stick them away out in the water somewhere where they are so hard to get to? On the map it is only a short jump from Hama, on the Swedish coast, to the island of Goshland, in the Baltic sea. The ancient city of Visby, on this island, is a point of rare interest. "By" means "town," and the laws of this town were accepted so widely at one time that they came to be known in the world of trade as "by-laws," and the term is now a fixture in the English language.—Pittsburgh Magazine.

Poultrymen Visit Hickory Hill Farm

Sixty Poultry Raisers Inspect Well-Known Poultry Farm and Hear Interesting Address by Prof. Rice—Time for Calumnes, Mo. Says.

A big meeting of Ulster county poultrymen was held at C. H. Weidner's Hickory Hill Poultry Farm on Tuesday, August 16. A crowd of sixty poultrymen attended to inspect the Weidner plant and to hear Prof. Rice's message.

The program opened with an inspection trip through the trapnesting and breeding pens led by Mr. Weidner. Innumerable questions were asked and answered and considerable information on methods and results was passed around. At noon a basket picnic was held in the shade of the many large trees near the house. At this time Prof. Rice from Cornell arrived. Following lunch Mr. Weidner gave an interesting talk on the topic "Building for Permanence." His remarks were evidence of a thorough understanding of his breeding business and greatly impressed his listeners with the care and thoroughness he has given to the study of breeding. Prof. Rice then spoke on the general poultry situation at the present time.

The poultry business, said Prof. Rice, is now in the midst of a "poultry tail spin." A good aviator never becomes excited or confused while in a "tail spin." Then is the time for calmness and quick thinking to insure a safe landing. His advice to New York state poultrymen is to keep calm and avoid becoming unduly excited and so insure a safe landing when the poultry business comes out of the "tail spin."

Considerable time was spent by Prof. Rice, handling a few of Mr. Weidner's prize trapnest birds, pointing out the good and bad points in an effort to show his listeners what to look for when selecting breeders.

It was late in the afternoon with long shadows from the mountain trees cast about before the last of the group left the scene of the meeting. Both Mr. Weidner and Prof. Rice were congratulated warmly by many who attended for their part in giving the poultrymen opportunity for so well worth while a day.

Financial and Commercial
New York, Aug. 18 (AP)—The main price movement in today's stock market continued upward, but considerable spot trading developed, particularly in the early trading. Fears of a "secondary reaction," such as ordinarily follows the first recovery after a sharp break, undoubtedly kept many traders out of the market, and accounted for the small volume of business.
Easy money rates continued to provide the main ground work for the advance. Call loans renewed at 3 1/2 per cent; the lowest of the year and the lowest mid-August rate since the war. While the plentiful supply of funds testified to the general ease of credit conditions, there was a disposition in some quarters to regard it as a bearish business, on the theory that the huge surplus of loanable funds were due, in part, to the relatively small commercial demand.
Rails shook off the sluggishness which developed as a result of the disappointing freight traffic reports, and started upward around mid-day under the leadership of the eastern carriers. Nickel Plate, Lehigh Valley, Delaware & Hudson, Baltimore & Ohio, and Atlantic Coast Line all sold 2 to nearly 4 points above yesterday's final quotations.
Further strength developed in the oil group on the theory that the industry would be helped by the seasonal curtailment of drilling operations, particularly in new fields. One block of 10,000 shares of Phillips Petroleum changed hands at 45. Houston extended its gain to more than 5 points, and Atlantic Refining to 3 1/2.
Motors were spotty, with speculative interest centering largely in Hudson on rumors of an increase in dividend at Saturday's meeting of the board. Resumption of the advance in merchandising issues was accompanied by heavy profit-taking.

CHICAGO POLICE DISCOVER A RICH GAMBLING RESORT
Chicago, Aug. 18 (AP)—A fashionable rendezvous along the North Shore "gold coast" known as the Newport Bowling Club, was found to be a smartly kept gambling resort for roulette, cards, and other games when a squad of police battered its way through guarded doors in a successful raid last night.
The raid was a sequel to an exposure published by the Daily News yesterday in which the resort was said to be operated by "Big Tim" Murphy, former Chicago labor leader, and "Nicky" Armistead of New York, both of whom once were prisoners in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth.
The resort was equipped lavishly with all the accoutrements of expensive gambling, the police confiscating roulette wheels and other devices worth several thousands of dollars.

Orthodox Church Rejects Reports
Laurens, Aug. 18 (AP)—The delegates of the Eastern Orthodox Church today announced to the world that they could accept only one of the six reports being prepared by the Conference, the others being inconsistent with the principles of their church.
The Easterners rejected all but one of the six Conference reports, the exception being the report on the teaching of the Holy Scriptures, which they said was in accord with the Orthodox conception.
The Most Rev. Epiphanius Troianos, metropolitan of Sardis, rose and asked permission to make a statement. Speaking slowly and impressively in English, he said:
"We have concluded with regret that the basis assumed for the foundation of the reports which are to be submitted to the vote of the conference are inconsistent with the principles of the Orthodox Church which we represent."
Metropolitan Epiphanius, after reading his prepared statement said that it was not intended as a withdrawal but simply as a statement of the position of the Eastern Orthodox representatives.

Heir to Millions Still Chops Meat
Detroit, Aug. 18 (AP)—William Walker today planned to resume his accustomed place behind a meat block in a Royal Oak butcher shop where he is employed, despite the fact that he has been notified that under the terms of the will of Arthur T. Walker, heir to the fortune of Edward P. Searles, Methuen, Mass., he will receive a large portion of the $30,000,000 estate.
The butcher was a brother of Arthur T. Walker, who died recently, and whose will leaves the bulk of the estate to four sisters and two brothers.
Walker was dumbfounded when informed of the terms of the will. Interviewed last night at his home, a simple one-story bungalow in Royal Oak, Detroit suburb, Walker said he would continue at his present work "until I have time to think."

Great Wall of China
Few people realize what an almost perfect condition prevails along a large part of the great wall of China. The bricks of the parapet are as firm as ever, and their edges have stood the severe climate of north China with scarcely a break. The paving along the top of the wall is so smooth that one may ride over it with a bicycle, and the great granite blocks with which it is faced are as smooth and as closely fitted as when put in place over 2,000 years ago. The entire length of this wall is 1,400 miles; it is 22 feet high and 20 feet in thickness. At intervals of 100 yards or so there are towers some 40 feet in height.

MORE MAHALIA SONGS

Molly was happy now that her favorite pet, her dear cow named Mahalia, could speak. The cow had been able to do that ever since she had eaten the weed, the special mixture.

And not only could she speak, but she liked to sing songs and recite the rhymes she had made up.

Of course Molly, loving Mahalia as she did, thought the songs were really quite beautiful.

Mahalia almost thought so, too, as she watched Molly enjoying them so much.

"Did you ever make up any other songs?" Molly asked.

"Never any other songs," Mahalia answered. "But I made up a poem to recite."

"Recite it, do," asked Molly.

So once more Mahalia began and this time she spoke her piece:

My subjects are not many,
Of thoughts I've hardly any.
I haven't much to do,
I dearly love to chew.

There's pasture, barn and stream,
There's time to sit and dream,
There's little need to hurry,
I never have to worry.

They milk me twice a day,
In the good old cowish way,
I wander off sometimes—
Just now I'm making rhymes.

I do not like to sing,
To moo's another thing,
Nor do I care for dancing,
Nor jumping, nor for prancing.

New maybe you can see
From these few lines by me,
That I am not a poet great,
Fame will never be my fate.

"Oh well," said Molly, "you really don't care, do you?"

"Not a bit," said Mahalia, as she slowly chewed.

"But you said in your poem you didn't like to sing, and you sang before as though you enjoyed it."

"Molly," said Mahalia, "that's the way one does with poetry—it's all for the sake of the rhyme."

"I know that from the verses you've told me you were making up for birthdays or valentines."

They sat for awhile without saying anything. Even though Mahalia could speak she seemed to like to rest her voice, too.

Molly's hair was brown. Her eyes were gray and she had a few freckles.

They Sat for Awhile.

long legs and otherwise was much the same as very many little girls.

But to Mahalia she was nobody else in the world.

Mahalia had the usual size legs for a cow. She was born with white spots, and around her neck she wore a sweet-sounding cow bell.

She looked not unlike other cows, but to Molly she was more beautiful than any cow in the world.

Molly had often thought she would like to have adventures but the thought of leaving Mahalia had kept her from going on any adventures that would take her much of a distance away.

Once she started for a trip and had come back to kiss Mahalia three times and then twice more.

But after she had started with all the things she thought she would need tucked into a bundle—her nightgown, toothbrush, three pears, one apple, a piece of cake, five candles and a crust of bread—she had come back.

Now she thought of adventures again.

"I always thought," she told Mahalia, "that it would be just a little hard taking you around, but now that you can speak you and I can go adventuring."

He Had Suffered

Little Leslie had been sent round to the butcher's for a pound of steak and sausage to make a pie.

Arriving at the meat shop, he astounded the man behind the counter by asking for the toughest steak in the shop.

"Whatever do you want tough steak for?" demanded the butcher.

"Well, you see," said Leslie very thoughtfully, "if it is tender I'm afraid father will eat the lot."

Playing With a Friend

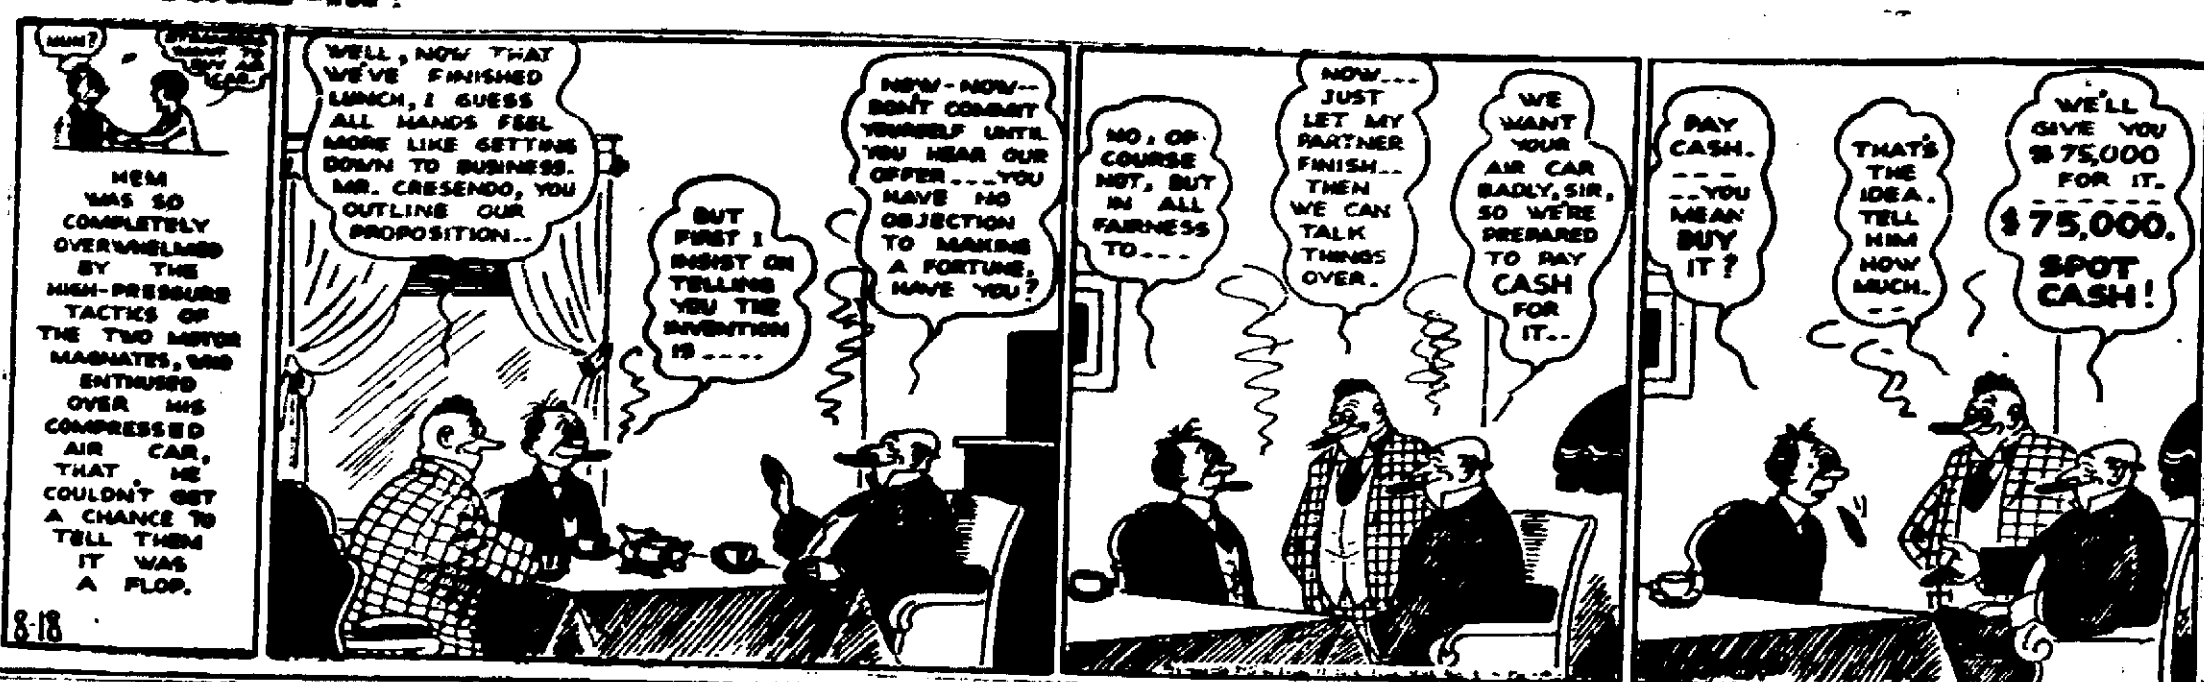

The woman across the street has purchased a blooded pig, and so she likes to wander every day guards him with care.

The other day he got away and when she came out to look for him, Marcella, who was just passing, said to her: "If you're looking for Pecos you'll find him in the next street. He's playing with a dog friend of his."

"Finding Felix"
At Crosspatch

Community Good Times Marked by Unique Most Pleasant Evening to Many Neighbors—Dance and Contest to be Repeated.

Crosspatch Community Center was crowded to capacity last Saturday evening when all the folks for miles around came to dance and swap jokes and have a generally gay time. The floor was good, the musicians in tune, the refreshments ample, so everybody proceeded to dance as if there hadn't ever been a dance before and maybe never would be one again.

The summer colony was out in full force, among them Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Sprackling, Mrs. Robert Tate with her two daughters, Doris and Helen, Mrs. J. Stryker, Mr. and Mrs.
Slevin and daughters, Mr. and Mrs.
Arnold Greene of New York and many others who came some distance.

Everybody had such a good time that they wanted another party so they will have another dance at Crosspatch Saturday evening, September 3, which is the Saturday before Labor Day. Most of the summer colony will be leaving around Labor Day and Mrs. Cross will go back to editorial work after a very happy summer at Crosspatch.

Finding Felix Very Exciting.

The very popular pastime of "Finding Felix" went off with great bilarity and Felix was found three times in the course of Saturday afternoon and evening.

Mrs. Cross decided to hide Felix after being petitioned by many of the younger folks. Felix may be anything so long as he has his name on him in plain letters. He was first found by Robert Whitney, son of Dr. and Mrs. Whitney, who were staying at Mrs. George Hooke's, Lake Hill and motored up with a carload of young people. Felix in this case was a big metal beetle with his name on a roller underneath, which makes him travel in a very life-like manner.
He was hidden under a corner of the zinc under the stove at the far end of the community house. There had been several searching parties earlier in the afternoon and as they failed to unearth Felix, Mrs. Cross hoped she had him hidden for the evening crowd. So young Mr. Whitney got his dollar prize and a lot of credit for being a pretty keen youngster.

He gave back Felix and Mrs.
Cross lost him down a hole in the wall when she was trying to hide him again. She took a little doll for the next Felix and hid it under a wide board which makes a rail where the secret attic joins the community house. For about a half hour the evening crowd made a lively search and Eddie Ostrander, who found Felix a year ago, had great hopes of the prize. William Welch of New York beat Eddie to it by a very narrow margin. Mr. Welch very generously returned Felix and the reward so that there might be a continued search.

Mrs. Cross carried Felix in a fold of her satin coat for a while and then slipped the doll under the open lid of a violin case where Walter Shultis had laid it on a bench. It was in plain sight and should have been found pronto, but a matron of rather generous proportions came along and sat on the bench, concealing Felix. She sat there for a long time and the treasure hunters were inclined to tell Mrs. Cross that she had hidden Felix elsewhere, but when the plump lady moved, Nelson, son of Mrs. Sprackling, pounced on Felix. He too, gave back the prize, and there will be another "Find Felix" game at the next party.

While this was going on the dancers were having a wonderful time.
The city visitors were fascinated with the old-time square dances and started right in to learn them. There were quite a number of young boys and girls, who are just beginning to go to parties, so they, too, must learn "Birdie in the Bush," "Pop Goes the Weasel," "Chase the Squirrel" and all the lovely figures and it was worth going miles to see the proud parents on the side lines watching their children perform with that sort of a proud look that seems to say:
"Now, isn't my Mamie—or John—the prettiest and most graceful you ever saw?"

Crosspatch has always held that if parents and children joined in a social party, the children were pretty safe and the parents very happy.

Dear Mrs. Slevin, surely 70 years young, insisted on walking to the Crosspatch party although her family has a nice car. She arrived a bit breathless but triumphant from a climb of fully three-quarters of a mile and was one of the gayest at the party. Mrs. Stryker and Mrs.
Tate served the ice cream and other refreshments in the dining room, and it was amazing what an amount was consumed.

All of Crosspatch House was brilliantly lighted from its own electric plant and many little groups of visitors were shown over the house, which has been decorated and refurnished as nearly as possible in the style of the old-time Colonial farm house, which it really was.

So everybody is looking forward to another jolly time Saturday evening, September 3, which will be the closing of the Crosspatch social season.

John Sargent's Ghost
Walks, Says Friend

London.—The ghost of John Sargent, famous American artist, in his grave there last two years, has returned to haunt the Chelsea studio where he died, in the belief of the present occupants of the house.
Frequently his footsteps are heard by Alfred Orr, his American artist friend, who took over the studio 16 months ago, descending from the second-floor workroom to the ground floor, in which he died, and which now is used as a bedroom by Mr. and Mrs. Orr.
The latter also has heard footsteps, which she recognized as Sargent's heavy tread.

PLATEKILL GRANGE
TO HOLD BAKE SATURDAY

Platekill Grange, No. 923, held its regular meeting on Saturday evening, August 13, with its usual record attendance of 100 members.
Charles Everett presided in the absence of Worthy Master Thompson.
Final plans were made for the annual clambake to be held at 6 p. m. on Saturday, August 20.

A most entertaining program was presented in charge of the committee of young men: Dorothy Powell entertained with a vocal solo, "Dawn of Tomorrow." Albert Cronk played a piano solo. Then a very humorous pantomime entitled "The Coquette" was presented by the following characters: Dorothy Powell, Ida M. Cronk, Sheldon Edmunds,
Eber Smith, Robert Tremper, Jr.,
Wilson Edmunds and Albert Cronk.
An "Inverted Chorus" of young men gave a vocal number. The Rev. J.
W. Taylor entertained with one of his usual good monologues followed by an encore. An automobile guessing contest completed the program.
Ice cream and cakes were served by the refreshment committee.

The next meeting on August 27 will be in charge of the following committees: Entertainment—Lena Wood, Ida Cronk, Muriel Hedges, Maella Paltridge, Lolita Harris; refreshment—Mr. and Mrs. George Fowler, Leroy Fowler, Mrs. George Decker, Mrs. Ola Weaver, Luella and Gladys DeWitt, George Martin.

Speedy English Justice

A record for speedy justice was claimed by the police for Northampton, England. Mrs. Mary Bland applied at the police court for a warrant against her husband for assault.
The latter was arrested, tried and sentenced to 14 days' hard labor exactly 15 minutes after the application for the warrant was made.

of four small streams—the Mat, Ta, river is merely a composite of those four names.

ALL CITIZENS URGED TO SEE STATE FAIR

Triumph of Agriculture, Industry and Education in Empire State, Says Pyrke.

EXCHANGE OF IDEAS HELPFUL

All citizens of New York State are urged to witness the advancement being made in development of agricultural, industrial and other resources of the State at the State Fair, Syracuse, this fall by Commissioner Berns A. Pyrke of the Department of Agriculture and Markets. His reasons why all New Yorkers should attend the fair during the week of August 23 to September 3 are included in a statement issued from the State Fair office.

Commissioner Pyrke's department has supervision of the State Fair division for the first time this year in the State's plan of reorganization. Director J. Dan Ackerman is planning to carry out the details of the fair on a more pretentious scale than has ever been attempted in the 87 years of its existence.

The exchange of ideas about the latest products of farm and shop are looked upon by Commissioner Pyrke as an educational advantage which cannot be duplicated any other way than by attendance at the State Fair. He says: "Pioneer agricultural leaders, members of the Society for Promotion of Agriculture and Useful Arts, and its successor, the State Agricultural Society, worked out plans for the State Fair and other fairs with the general plan in mind of giving farmers and other workers an opportunity to exhibit the best of the results of their labor, to exchange opinions on problems connected with early agriculture and manufacture and to meet socially at the harvest time. "It is not much different in this day of the New York State Fair. The finest products of the farms in the Empire State are exhibited and all are free to interrogate as to production and to take home from the fair plans for improving and developing their own cultural methods.

"As in the early days of the fair, the most improved and advanced types of farm machinery, a wide range of dairy machinery, utensils, and the finest breeds of livestock are on exhibition. So that again the visitor may take back with him plans for improving his stock and lightening the burden of labor by the use of advanced machinery.

It is in this that the Fair gives the greatest service and it is a service which should call out the largest attendance and support. The entertainment program has been greatly developed and the many features, such as the Junior projects work, the spelling bee, meetings of the New York State Grange and other agricultural organizations, round out the exposition which is New York State's own and reflective of its advancement in industry and other lines of endeavor.

STAY IN SMALL TOWN, IS ADVICE OF PRIZE WINNER

Young Dramatist, 1927 Pulitzer Choice, Urges Young Writers to Avoid Big Cities.

New York—Young Americans who feel the urge to write plays, novels or anything else worth while will do it at home if they follow the advice of Paul Green, playwright and winner of the 1927 Pulitzer prize play.

They will avoid the Greenwich Village of New York, the Latin Quarter of Paris and such other art colonies which, he says, are poison to the soul of the true artist.

"Stay in the small town to do your work. Don't come near the city," warns the young North Carolina backwoodsman whose play, "In Abraham's Bosom," won this year the most coveted award in the American dramatic field.

"New York has ruined more talent than any other city in the world," he declares in an interview to be published in McClure's Magazine. "I have seen dozens of young men strike out for New York to express their souls. But before they can do any expressing, they have to cut, so they get a job on a newspaper or in an advertising office, intending to do their writing on the side.

"Time goes on, the job looms larger and expression dwindles. Perhaps, in the first spasm of ambition, they publish one thin volume entitled, 'Song of My Soul,' and are never heard from again. Greenwich Village and Times Square have gobbled them up.

"If I had to stay in New York my pen would run dry within the year. And if I wrote to please the New York critics—God help my work!

"I started out very close to life, in the elemental, and now New Yorkers are talking pityingly about my 'handicap.' The things they consider handicaps were my greatest advantages. For life is superior to any kind of art, and no art is valid that does not spring directly from life. Greenwich Village has forgotten that. It is full of young people completely innocent of life, who are feverishly setting down their shallow ideas in scribbles on paper."

The Pulitzer prize winner, who at thirty-three is an instructor in philosophy in the University of North Carolina, declares, in the McClure's interview, that a regular job apart from his art is a stabilizing factor for the young writer.

"Stay at home, read books, ignore artificial standards and keep a steady job. Those are my precepts for the youngster who wants to write," he says. "Art pursued eight hours a day is likely to run thin. If you have a steady job, you can write when you really have something to say and stop when you haven't."

Laments Death of Dog; Wants Equal Life Span

Atlantic City, N. J.—Judge William H. Smathers' dog, Champion Phil's Speed Ben, a retriever, which died July 4, was the subject of a formal tribute written by the judge.

"Man's heart would be saved many a bitter sorrow if men and dogs had the same span of life," the judge wrote. "Since my dog's death my heart has been so heavy with grief that I have not been able to bring myself to the point of writing or talking about it until now. I cannot understand why the span of a dog's life, man's best friend, is only one-tenth the span of a man's life."

A tombstone will be erected to the dog, which is buried behind the judge's home on Venter avenue. Judge Smathers had the animal ten years and always took it with him on hunting trips in North Carolina.

Jewel Lands of Queen of Sheba Reported Found

London.—Gold and jewel mines which "can be developed to produce as they did in the days of King Solomon" still exist in the lost lands of Ophir in Arabia, Commander C. Craftford, a British naval officer, declared in a lecture before the Royal United Service Institution.

After a 20-year search, Commander Craftford said, he had discovered the lost lands of Ophir 400 miles east of Aden. It was there that the Queen of Sheba gathered together 33 tons of gold and jewels which she took to King Solomon, according to the Biblical story.

Commander Craftford said that he located the lands of Biblical days by retracing the steps that King Hiram, a friend of King Solomon, took when he sought the sources of the Queen of Sheba's wealth.

Here's How to Make Dress for 60 Cents

Durham, N. H.—While choosing materials for 40 fashion shows in this state Miss Daisy Deas Williamson, home demonstration leader of the University of New Hampshire extension service, had a novel idea.

She bought four and a half yards of "handkerchief cloth" at a large mill. From this she made a dress, the entire cost of which was 60 cents, including fittings.

Miss Margaret Symes of Doverworth posed in the dress at the 40 style shows.

Like the cool of a breeze at the mountain top

You are always sure of a cool, refreshing drink when you order "Canada Dry."

It isn't sickly sweet like so many summer drinks, but crisp and keen like the cool of a breeze at the mountain top.

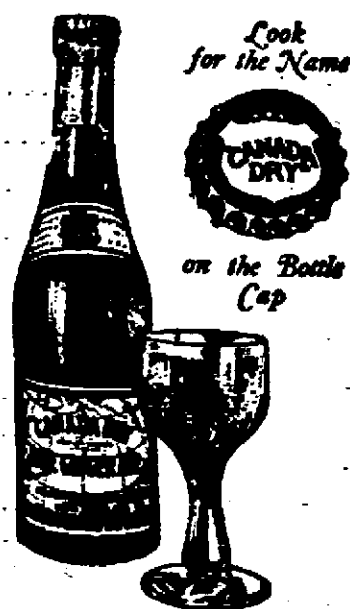

One of the principal reasons for this is the fact that "Canada Dry" is made from the highest grade Jamaica ginger instead of capsicum (red pepper).

Capsicum always gives a biting, burning taste and it is used in many ordinary ginger ales because it costs much less to use than the kind of ginger used in "Canada Dry."

Buy "Canada Dry" in summer, therefore, not only because of the wonderful flavor, but because you know that you can depend on its unvarying purity and high quality. It has been served for years in the great hospitals in Canada and in this country.

Through ESSEX thousands know
The Ride that is like flying with the exclusive high-compression, anti-knock motor that turns waste heat to power

All eyes turn to the new Essex Super-Six whose vivid brilliance of performance reveals in a single ride a smoothness and quiet, broad-skimming ease and soaring exhilaration that is actually like flying.

Greater in power, more versatile in all performance, larger, roomier and more beautifully appointed, it gloriously earns its richer reward in even greater popularity than its predecessor.

Whether idling at a crawl, flashing through traffic, spurring at top speed or doing a comfortable 50 miles an hour all day long, its outstanding characteristic is ease, smoothness and complete absence of effort in every requirement.

In Essex, as in Hudson, the new, exclusive, high-compression motor that turns waste heat to power, develops the greatest power per cubic inch of piston displacement of any stock motor we know in the world. And it develops it economically, because it not only converts heat wasted in other types to useful power, but does it on ordinary gasoline with no need for special, higher-priced fuels.

What's the Matter With Farming?

Mr. DuMont Tells Rotarians He Does Not Know But Is Sure We Do Not Need More Farmers and Farmers Need Better Business Methods More Than New Laws.
"Some Observations on Farming," made and uttered informally by C. C. DuMont of Ulster Park, the farmer member of the Kingston Rotary Club, were listened to appreciatively and with close attention at the Rotary luncheon on Wednesday by such Rotarians as were able to escape the stress of Dollar Day. Mr. DuMont's observations seem to have led him to the conclusion that the farm is a business, an industry and a manufacturing plant on which the problems and the elements of success or failure are very much like those in any other business. Many fail, through failure to apply sound business principles and industry intelligently directed.

Farming is misunderstood and poorly advertised, largely because of farmers and those who speak for farmers persistently presenting only the dark side and attributing all of the unfavorable conditions to outside sources. Farming has something the matter with it, but the speaker said he did not know what was the matter and he did not believe any one else knew. If they did, there would not be all this ado about congress doing something. Farming has gone through many transitions and is in a state of transition today. Not so long ago there was a market for all the farmers could produce. Now there is little market for the surplus over our own consumption. Argentina, Australia, South Africa and remote regions in our own country are producing and competing with our farmers in the markets. Refrigeration and more rapid transportation have made it possible for outlying districts where labor is cheap to get farm produce to market. Recently the speaker said he found perishable produce from eight states in the Kingston markets, and he did not see how the government could do anything to help.

But the Federal Reserve has protected the banks, the railroads have been guaranteed a profit and almost every other kind of business has been in some way bolstered by the government, so it is not unreasonable for the farmers to ask for some small share in this bolstering for themselves and if anyone can devise a way to do this—that will hold water—he will be doing a great service. But there are other things the matter. One is too many rich men owning and operating farms at a loss or an insufficient profit. They do not have to make their living from the farms but the produce goes on the market in competition with that of farmers who do have to make their living from their farms. We do not want more farmers—we want fewer and better. Quantity production has been advanced by some of the "great minds" as a solution of the trouble—the same "great minds" that planned the reclamation projects that left the Mississippi Valley at the mercy of devastating floods, but if auto-mobility, for instance, were produced in quantity and then sent to commission men to sell for anything they could get, we would be buying tin plates for $10 and the automobile months would be bankrupt in two improved and there must be better farm management. If it costs one article and farmers elsewhere can produce it for 50 cents the high cost producer cannot expect that congress can legislate so as to enable him to compete. He should cut the cost or get out of the business.

The farmer is a manufacturer and he should buy his raw materials at wholesale. He cannot expect to buy raw materials at retail and sell his product at wholesale and make a profit. He should use the good land and not waste time on the poor land. Here in Ulster county are farms that ought to have remained wooded lots, while good land, that can be filled with modern machinery, lies idle. Organization alone is not a solution, but organizing intelligently will help. Advertising will help in the sale of certain products. It is being begun in the fruit industry and will give results if intelligently done and backed by standardizing of the product. Brands and labels must be made to mean something and to be truthful and reliable if advertising is to be a success.

In conclusion, Mr. DuMont spoke of the advantages of farm life, the superiority of the farm as a place to raise a family and a place on which to grow old.

Giant Magnet Clears Roadway of Nail Perils
Olympia, Wash.—New equipment for removing nails and metal matter from highways has just been perfected by the engineering department of the State College of Agriculture, at Pullman. It consists of a specially designed magnet built especially for road work. Each magnet is strong enough to pick up a loose nail a distance of six inches or more and in operation the magnet is carried about two inches off the road. It has in demonstration picked out nails buried two inches in the gravel or mashed into the tar divisions of the concrete. The equipment has four four-foot magnets sweeping a strip eight feet wide.

Tucking Is Much in Paris Fashion

Plaiting and Inlaid Work Is Also in Limelight on Gay Silk Frocks.

When projected modes for the new spring gowns of various silk materials were under discussion by the couturiers, the first and most important ruling must have obtained "tucks and more tucks," for certainly the hand-run tucks of which France is so fond receive great emphasis in every collection. These minute folds, which a Paris fashion correspondent in the New York Times, vary in width from the pin tuck to one inch wide and serve a multitude of uses. They may obviate the need of much complicated sewing; they may be an integral if ornamental part of the design, and often they are testimonials to the ingenuity of the designer, so imaginatively are they used. They cover the gown completely in straight or horizontal or vertical lines or curve with the lines of the gown as readily; they appear flitting inlaid triangles, circles or U-shaped panels; on Vionnet's gowns they spray down from right or left shoulder to develop into fan plaits on the front skirt, or spray from both shoulders simultaneously, crossing in diamonds on the waist before progressing into the skirt plaits.

On one of the new two-color gowns shown by Vionnet, horizontal plastrons fill a wide front and back panel of beige crepe de chine while the sides of the gown are of plain brown attached with fagoting. A wide straight collar of the beige continues into an end on the left side to form a scarf or coquettish bow, while wrapped cuffs of the beige are tied perkily about the long brown sleeves.

Inlaid work retains its popularity. Premet uses this difficult medium on a collarless frock of soft gray silk alpaca. He inserts a two-inch strip of gray silk speckled in white and piped on either edge with white, into the gown beginning on the left shoulder, and encircling the body twice to fasten at the end of the left waistline, thus giving two rows of the inserted strip across the back of the waist and three in front. The skirt is simply box-plaited, attached under a gray suede belt, with the sleeves long and plain except for an inserted band of the speckled material about the wrists.

With the help of inlaid work, Premet's very original interpretation of the familiar gown made by opposing the two sides of crepe satin, makes a significant and new two-color gown. The entire right half of the one-piece frock is of black satin while the left side is of the reversed crepe, the two halves interlocking in inlaid claw points. The wrapped belt narrows in front under an enameled buckle to give a slight up-in-front line.

Various new shoulder lines have appeared this season. Premet advocates a long shoulder continuing a third of the way to the elbow. This drooped shoulder appears on a chic frock of black satin, utterly simple in its wrapped, surprise effect held in place by a narrow patent belt fastening on the left side under a red ornament. A band collar of white georgette continues on down as a border on the circular ruffle, forming a jabot on the simplified left side of the gown, and from there as a border for the skirt. Quite a different shoulder is that on a Molyneux frock of beige crepe de chine where the sleeves continue up to a point at the neck. This gown, one-piece and straight in back, was draped in front in two sections, the waist draped to the left with the extra width permitted to fall in a jabot end, and the skirt draped in exactly the same manner with end hanging.

Watermelon Pink Flat Crepe for Sports Wear

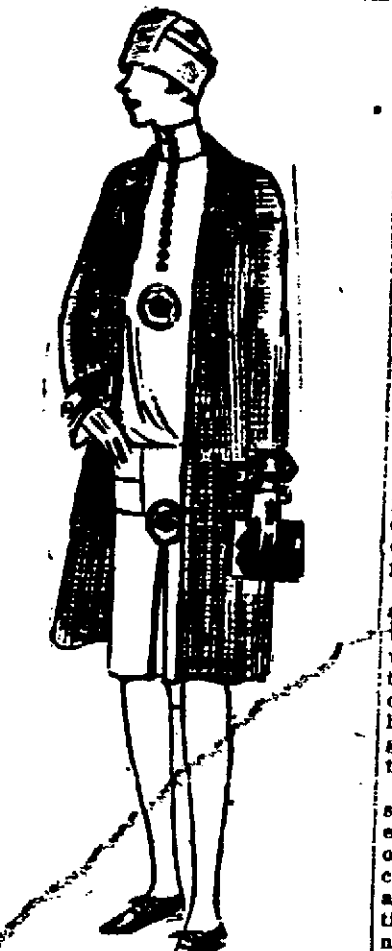

This chic dress of watermelon pink flat crepe is just the thing for sports wear. A novel note is achieved by the attaching of a diamant row of small threaded ornaments to form a waist with the narrow box plait that forms the body of the dress.

Gutta Percha Valuable
Gutta percha is prepared from the juice of certain trees found in the Malay peninsula and the adjacent islands. It hardens and decomposes more readily than India rubber, which is now often used as a substitute in the coating of submarine cables.

ELEANOR GUNN ON FASHIONS

Kepp is High on the List of Desirable Autumn Fabrics—Velvets and Soft Woolens Appear to Advantage in Sable and Gray Tones.

New York.—One swallow, it has frequently been affirmed, does not make a summer. So one has no cause for alarm on viewing the accompanying illustration of a gown with a choker collar. There seems little likelihood of the style becoming universal. There are occasions, however, that warrant an enthusiasm for the high collar. They seem particularly appropriate for travel. With many of us seeming to be perpetually on the wing, there is enough interest in the high-collared ensembles being shown to justify their appearance in this column.

Early fall showings of top coats and ensembles involving coats fill one with admiration for the cleverness with which tucks and folds are

Style Messages as Flashed From European and Other Resorts Indicate a Return to More Formal and Feminine Costuming

New York.—While it has been a entirely without trimming, or that season remarkable for the brilliance of colors worn, especially in printed effects, the newest note from abroad appears to be that neutral tones are best for sports wear.

Deauville, Biarritz, Le Touquet, and other fashionable places, to say nothing of our own watering places, all give evidence of being sartorially gay and splendid. Prints have been tremendously successful, and one feels inclined toward the belief that it is because of the cunning of the designers who have made small all-over patterns instead of huge splashy ones.

It is obvious that such enormous patterns, though decorative are quite out of the question except for the divinely tall and slender. Large women have discovered that the small all-over print is not unkind to them which surely accounts for the tremendous number of printed dresses that have been worn this season.

Far Tones Important.
Until more or less recently, one felt that sports clothes should be rather vivid. This idea is passing. From all over the smart world come reports of grays and sand tones, putty and neutral colors, which include very delicate blues and a creamy pink tone, as near salmon perhaps as anything.

Far tones, sometimes termed sable, are cited as very important for fall, the general feeling being that furs will tone in with the cloth they wear. A warm red brown is another early autumn color note that has the sponsorship of Paris, while gray greens and indefinite blues continue good.

Paris continues to send forth messages of all-black or all-white for evening, of untrimmed crepe satins on smart lines, which frequently include a bolero, but these messages are spiced by such variety as scintillating crystal and silver beaded nets, of crystal or silver on black, after the Lanvin manner, and of rather brilliant beaded effects. One feels that a dress should be given an oblique line. There are little trickeries of cut practiced about the shoulders that produce a raglan line, and that also not infrequently give a suggestion of a yoke.

The feeling is decidedly for soft-surfaced woollens for fall, with a preference for contrasts in coat and dress and considerable interest in velvet. While flares may be described as incidental, they are by no means unimportant. The introduction of the flare makes for diversity of silhouette, and the dexterous combination of both color and fabric tends toward individuality.

Repp must not be omitted in listing the favorites for early autumn. One hesitates in becoming involved in an inventory of desired colors. Sable or fur tones are spoken of on all sides and grays have important sponsorship. Both greens and blues toning to gray have merit, and many contend that two-tone fabrics are decidedly smarter than monotonous. Certainly this is true at the moment. WHAT TO DO IN AN EMERGENCY

It is the unexpected which draws on our resources. To be ready for an emergency is being well equipped. To aid the housewife to care for common injuries and accidents, there should be in every home, posted in a conspicuous place, a list of remedies for accidents of various kinds. Time means life in many cases. Lives are being lost daily because of lack of knowing what to do and not being able to think and act quickly. A woman who has such a list on her medicine closet door will be much more apt to keep her head because she will know that she can do the right thing.

Wisdom is knowing what to do next, skill is knowing how to do it, and virtue is doing it, says David Starr Jordan.

A person poisoned with poison if treated with bruised fresh leaves of catnip will be relieved from much suffering. Catnip grows so commonly all over the country that one need not look far for plenty.

In case of fire in one's clothing, do not run; lie down and roll over in a rug or carpet, keeping the fire from the face.

For sunstroke, loosen the clothing, lay the patient in a cool shady place and apply ice water to the head. Keep the head elevated.

Suffocation from gas, get the patient into the open air as quickly as possible.

Aromatic spirits of ammonia and nux vomica are both good stimulants to give to stimulate the heart.

To stop bleeding, bind a handful of flour on the cut.

For poison from acid, give milk and soda. Send for the doctor at once. Vinegar should be given for lye poisoning. Mustard and water will cause vomiting.

YOU'LL call them magic suds, too—when you see how much whiter the wash is, how much brighter and sweeter.

And think of it! No hard rubbing at all. No bar soaps—no chips—no powders. Not even a washboard to remind you it's wash-day. The whole week's wash gently soaked spotless. Magic, indeed!

No wonder millions of women are turning to Rinso. No wonder many thousands write us letters praising it. Read what one woman (perhaps you know her) says about it.

You'll be glad you tried it

Women who once use Rinso know the difference. Such thick, creamy, cleansing suds, in any water—soft or hard. Sterilizing suds that make even boiling unnecessary.

In these quick-working Rinso suds, dirt soaks out without scrubbing. All ordinary spots and stains float off by themselves. Even the grimeiest cuffs and edges become snowy with little or no rubbing!

Without wear and tear on the clothes or on your hands, Rinso suds get the wash the whitest white you ever saw!

The granulated soap soaks clothes whiter

Safe—and so economical!

Rinso is absolutely safe for your finest linens and cottons; and it removes dirt without harm to fast colors. Indeed, women say Rinso brightens colored clothes.

Economical, too; Rinso is all you need on washday—no other soap, no softener.

Be sure to get Rinso in time for your next week's wash. For economy and best results, follow the easy directions on the package.

Marvelous in washing machines

If you have a washer, just try Rinso! You never saw such results with other soaps. No wonder the makers of 31 leading washing machines highly recommend Rinso for safety, and for a whiter, brighter wash! And 32,000 demonstrators of leading washing machines use Rinso—nothing but Rinso—to show their washers at their best.

What Mrs. T. McGlynn, of West Hurley, says:

A friend of mine told me of Rinso about a year ago, and now we both get through with our week's wash hours earlier. And I'm never all tired out any more, either, the way I always used to be. Really, it's miraculous the way Rinso seems to make clothes new again, they come out of the soaking in the safe, creamy suds so white and clean! Why you don't have to use a washboard, even. And as for washing dishes, and cleaning floors and woodwork, give me Rinso every time, say I!

The Ladies' Auxiliary does not meet on August and the entire second floor will be used for the large meeting. Members who have never attended a Legion meeting and those who have not attended one lately are especially invited to attend this one.

All ex-servicemen interested in Kingston Post's life, drum and bugle corps are requested to be at the Legion building at 7:30 p. m.

Discover Old Law To Prosecute Men

Age-Old Provision of English Common Law To Be Used to Prosecute Wealthy Seattle Chinaman and Skipper for Death of Woman—Charged With Manslaughter.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 13 (P. M.)—An age-old provision of English common law has been uncovered in musty legal tomes here to provide the basis for prosecution of H. Greigh Nelson, wealthy Seattle clubman, and Amory F. Bell, skipper of Nelson's yacht, on a charge of manslaughter for the death of Miss Violet Maude Payne, young dance teacher who drowned during a liquor party on the yacht early last July 20.

As Prosecutor Colvin today prepared to file the manslaughter charges against the two men, he explained that the common law of England governing maritime criminality will hold Nelson and Bell, as owner and skipper of the boat, legally responsible for the death of their guest.

Evidence at a coroner's inquest last month showed, Colvin pointed out, that the two men stood by and made no effort to save the drowning woman who slipped and fell into Lake Union while leaving the yacht.

Witnesses at the inquest testified the drowning occurred in not more than ten feet of water and that life boats and life belts were close at hand, had the men desired to assist the struggling woman.

In its report, the jury branded Nelson and Bell as "cowards" and further found that they conspired to conceal the fact of the woman's death.

The English common law which the prosecutor said would be used against the two men was first applied in the United States in the case of the skipper of the old whaler "Charles," who was acquitted of manslaughter in federal court at San Francisco in 1864.

The skipper was tried for failure to stop his vessel and attempt to rescue a seaman who had fallen into the water.

Finds Music Best Means of Training Children

Philadelphia.—Music is the best means of gaining the understanding of children in all campaigns for Americanization, believes Mrs. Mary Louise Curtis Bok, who has spent many years working among the residents of Philadelphia's foreign quarters.

"We find music the best way to reach out for the sympathy of these young people," says Mrs. Bok. "While visiting the settlements I saw how many talented young musicians were compelled to give up a promising career because of poverty."

Her work in the music settlement schools of the city inspired Mrs. Bok to give a permanent endowment of $125,000 to the Curtis Institute of Music, founded three years ago to aid in the development of musical talent in America.

This fund is one of the largest ever devoted to this purpose. Josef Hofmann is the director. Funds are available for living expenses of needy students. Tuition, use of musical instruments and tickets for concerts and operas are offered, without cost. The institute also meets the cost of launching students upon their professional careers.

Among the teachers engaged by Mrs. Bok are Mrs. Marcelina Sembrich and Emilio de Gogorza, voice; Josef Hofmann and Moris Rosenthal, piano, and Carl Flesch, violin.

SMALLEST MOTOR TALL AS A DIME

Maker Spent Three Years in Manufacture.

Lincoln, Neb.—What its maker estimates is the smallest electric motor ever made is in the possession of E. Kahm, who has put in most of his spare moments for the last three years cutting out its parts and putting them together. It is now complete and running. The machinery run by the motor and the motor itself are mounted on a block of wood that is two and a half inches long and an inch and a half wide. The "belt" is made up of strands from No. 60 cotton thread. It makes 400 revolutions a minute.

The motor has 55 parts, made of gold, silver, copper, brass and iron.

and is on the conventional lines of standard motors. It is held together by 19 screws, the smallest of which has 200 threads and the largest 20 threads. Many of the parts, especially eight steel washers and the binding wheels, are so small that they cannot be seen by the naked eye. Kahm used a jeweler's glass while making the parts.

The motor is half as high as a 10-cent piece and weighs 100 grains. It took five feet of wire to wind the armature and three feet for each electric field, making a total of eleven feet. Kahm is a garage man and an expert electrician. This is the second miniature motor he has made, the first one being twice the size of this one. It was stolen during a fire, and was never recovered.

Kahm said that if he had charged for day labor at the customary price, the labor cost alone would have been $150.

Mr. duPont has bought his 50th Oil-O-Matic

Chairman of the Board of the great General Motors organization uses oil exclusively for heat on his estate. Small down payment gives you this same luxury. Lowest operating cost. Let us give you the facts.

TWO OF THE TENANT HOMES

On the duPont estate are large and small homes occupied by employees. Heating plants of various types. Yet all enjoy the same comforts. Oil-O-Matic can be connected to your present heating plant, whether it be steam, hot water or warm air.

JUST the bare statement that Pierre S. duPont has 50 Oil-O-Matic Oil Burners on his estate, answers nine-tenths of the questions on oil heat now in your mind.

And when you read how he came to select Oil-O-Matic—where they are used—the length of time he has had them—and their record of performance—you will realize that your whole problem of heating is answered for you.

Engineer Makes Actual Tests

From his staff of engineers, Mr. Brewer was appointed to determine which oil burner was best fitted to provide economical, uniform, dependable heat. On the basis of engineering excellence, his choice narrowed down to two. But after making actual tests in homes on Longwood Farms, the duPont estate, Mr. Brewer enthusiastically recommended Oil-O-Matic. He also bought two for his parents' home and father's greenhouse.

This settles the question of comparative merit.

For Any Size Home

Longwood farms covers 1200 acres of beautifully rolling countryside, near Kennett Square, Pa. The employees and their families dwell on this estate in average size homes. It is into these that Mr. duPont has placed fifty Oil-O-Matics.

This is your assurance that no home is too small to enjoy all the wonderful benefits of Oil-O-Matic Heat.

Dependable Uniform Heat

The first three Oil-O-Matics were installed on the estate in the spring of 1925. So perfectly did they function that during the summer, 39 more were purchased. These 42 have more than confirmed the engineer's judgment. Eight more have been added as new homes were completed.

In view of this there should be no question as to its dependability. Particularly since

Oil-O-Matic has been giving similar satisfaction for eight years and more home owners are buying Oil-O-Matic than any other two burners combined!

have led more people to select it than any other make, are described in "OIL HEATING at its best." Mail the coupon now for your copy.

Lowest Operating Cost

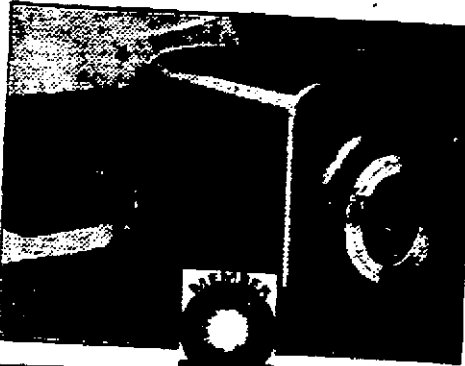

The individual tenants bear the cost of heating their own homes and their satisfaction is the best measure of Oilomatic Heat. You will find their homes spotlessly clean and easy to keep so. They enjoy the comfort of perfectly uniform, automatic heat at a cost equal to the bare cost of coal.

Oil-O-Matic's low operating cost is primarily due to its ability to use heavy oils, lower in price and richer in heat units than the light oils to which most oil burners are restricted. Yet Oil-O-Matic burns light or heavy oil with equal facility.

Small Payment Down

Write or phone us today to send out a trained oilomatician to make a survey of your heating requirements. Terms may be easily arranged that make the initial cost of installation insignificant indeed. You have a year to pay the balance.

New Stencils for Marking Apples

Should Be Obtained by Growers, Says Commissioner Pyrkke, in Order to Comply With New Requirements of Department of Agriculture and Markets.

New stencils to comply with the marking requirements for apple grades promulgated by the Department of Agriculture and Markets should be obtained by the apple growers of New York state, according to Commissioner Berne A. Pyrkke. Apples graded in such a manner as to meet the requirements of the previous "New York Standard A" grade may be marked "New York Apples—U. S. No. 1."

The requirements for apples packed "New York Apples, U. S. Commercial" are the same as "New York—U. S. No. 1" except that there are no color limitations and the apples need not be mature.

"New York Apples—U. S. No. 2" is a grade practically identical with the old "New York Standard B" grade.

Requirements for "U. S. Fancy" grade have been somewhat reduced and are now slightly lower than those of the old "New York Standard Fancy" grade. This makes the grade a usable one. For good apples having color it is pointed out that growers will find it an advantage to use this grade when possible.

The New York apple grading law requires that the face, or shown surface, of all closed or open packages of apples represent the average of the contents of the package. This applies to apples grown in other states and sold in New York state as well as to apples grown and packed in this state.

Copies of the apple grading law, together with the grades, rules and regulations promulgated by Commissioner Pyrkke and other important information along this line, may be obtained by application to the Department of Agriculture and Markets, Albany, N. Y.

Richest Man of 300 B. C.

Interesting information about Croesus, famous rich man of ancient times, is reported by the Detroit News. The gift he presented to Delphi, 900 years before Christ, would be valued at about $300,000,000 in modern currency. It included a pyramid surmounted by a lion, both made of precious metals; two bowls of solid gold large enough to hold 5,400 gallons each, besides a present of $13 to every man in the city. And those were the days before there were oil wells or steel trusts and modern methods of getting rich quicker.

Married in the Cemetery

An unusual wedding occurred in a neighboring state. The bridegroom was an undertaker, whose father had been an undertaker before him. The ceremony took place at midnight in the cemetery before the father's grave. Asked why he was married in this way, the bridegroom said: "Well, I've been to the cemetery so often on sad occasions that I felt I should like to come here just once for some happy event." . . . Couples afraid of being too happy might try this.—Cappe's Weekly.

Golden Rule of Life

The Golden Rule, in various forms, is found in the literature of several ancient peoples. It was taught by the Chinese philosopher, Confucius, more than five centuries before the Man of Galilee started on his ministry. In the Analects of Confucius appears this passage: "Tze-kung asked, saying, Is there one word which may serve as a rule of practice for all one's life? The Master said, Is not Reciprocity such a word? What you do not want done to yourself, do not do to others."—Pathfinder Magazine.

"Shoo 'Em Out," Said the Judge

The Order Was Given When It Looked as Though a Fight Would Be Staged in Court Room by a Thin Man and a Fat Woman.

"You are a blacky—black hat," observed the short, thin man in a high pitched voice addressing his remarks to a fat woman with bobbed hair in police court Wednesday.

"You're another," she retorted in an equally high pitched voice.

"Shoo 'em out, all of them," commanded Judge A. H. Van Buren at this point, addressing his order to Policeman Charles Murphy who promptly executed it.

The whole affair started when a woman called to see the judge Tuesday and said that she wanted a man summoned in court and lectured by the judge. She said that he had been making unkind remarks about her.

The summons was served and it brought half a dozen women, one babe in arms, another just able to toddle, and three men.

Judge Van Buren called the woman up to the desk and also the man and asked what the trouble was. The woman began to explain when the man interrupted, saying he wanted the judge to make the woman keep her mouth shut.

"That's an impossibility," observed the judge, adding "I have never yet used a man who could make a woman keep her mouth closed."

By this time the fat woman with the bobbed hair had stepped up to the desk and began addressing her remarks to the short, thin man who responded in vigorous language.

"What you want to do," said Judge Van Buren pointing for order on his desk, "is to go home, all of you, and keep your mouths shut and then you will keep out of trouble."

After the half a dozen women, the two babies and the three men had been "shooed" out of the court room by Officer Murphy they continued the argument, descending the stairs leading to the street, and the policeman was forced to continue the "shooing" order on the street, directing one half of the party to proceed home in one direction and the other half in the opposite direction.

There may be further developments.

Says Earth Will Cease to Rotate Eventually

London.—The earth eventually will cease to rotate and will become a stationary object, one-half with sunshine and the other half with eternal darkness, according to Dr. Andrew Crommelin, formerly assistant astronomer at the Royal observatory, who recently retired after 36 years of service.

Doctor Crommelin declared here recently that at the present rate of "slowing" in its rotation the earth would cease to rotate in some "few millions of years." He attributed the "slowing" to friction of the tides.

"The world is safe enough, however," he said, "so far as everyone who is on it now is concerned."

Referring to life on other planets and heavenly bodies, Doctor Crommelin declared so far as science knows at the present there is no life on the moon. "Life on the moon," he said, "would be impossible unless there is some animal there that can live without air."

Not to Be Consoled
Little Katherine was crying, not for anything in particular, but for everything in general. Her mother, trying to divert her attention, said:

"Oh, look at that pretty horse tied out there."

But Katherine took it as one more grievance in life, saying: "I want that horse to be a mule."
